

Nassau Zone Report for May 21, 2022 Board Meeting

I am beyond thrilled...and BLESSED BEYOND MEASURE, AMEN, AMEN, to report that the Nassau Zone is growing! We have seen societies and churches in Nassau struggling for several years, but thanks be to God, we are experiencing new growth and revitalization within our societies.

We have a brand new society with 22 members, The Ladies Aid of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Amityville. They were officially welcomed into the LWML Atlantic District at our awesome convention, Blessed Beyond Measure. I will be joining the women of St. Paul's to welcome them personally at their annual picnic on June 7, 2022.

Another church in the Nassau Zone is working on starting a second society. This is still in the planning stages, so I will announce it at the appropriate time. Stay tuned!

Calvary Lutheran Church in East Meadow has been inactive in recent years, mostly during the pandemic, and many of their members are now shut ins. However, a few women who have not been involved in LWML in the past, expressed an interest, and two of them attended the convention and are now hooked! God is good...all the time!

On April 9, 2022, the women of the Nassau Zone celebrated their Spring Event at Trinity Lutheran Church in New Hyde Park. Our gracious hosts provided a wonderful variety of delicious food, both American and Guyanese, and it was unbelievably delectable! They also went above and beyond with their decorations, all relating to deafness and deaf ministry to honor our deaf sisters and brothers. Our guest speaker was Pastor Anthony Giordano from Mill Neck Manor. He spoke about his ministry at Mill Neck, Lutheran Friends of the Deaf, and also a Biblical presentation entitled "What's In A Name?"

We were BLESSED BEYOND MEASURE, AMEN, AMEN, to have Leah Lalljie, a wonderful young woman of God from Trinity, New Hyde Park, serve as one of the Young Women Representatives at our convention. She served with three other YWRs and couldn't have done a better job representing the Nassau Zone.

Calvary Lutheran Church has offered to host our Fall Event at a date to be determined sometime in October.

Our annual Advent Breakfast will be held on Saturday, December 3, 2022. More detailed information will be forthcoming.

Respectfully submitted,
